

Northern Hardwood Conference 2023 – Student Poster Symposium

Call for Abstracts

Deadline for submission: May 15, 2023

Northern hardwood forests occupy millions of hectares in the eastern United States and Canada, representing one of the most economically important and ecologically diverse forests in eastern North America. Northern hardwood silviculture is diverse and complex as well and has been the focus of extensive research for over 80 years. The 2023 Northern Hardwood Conference (NHC) will give researchers, academia, and forest managers from across the range of northern hardwoods a forum to learn, share, and discuss cutting edge science and innovative management practices to sustain healthy and productive northern hardwood forests.

Forestry professionals will meet in for a three-day in person event. The conference days are August 1st & 2nd, and a field day on the 3rd at the Fredericton Convention Centre. The event partners include the Northern Hardwoods Research Institute, the University of New Brunswick, and the Canadian Institute of Forestry – Maritimes Section.

To encourage student participation in the NHC we will be hosting a poster symposium for graduate and undergraduate students to present their research. This contest will also be open to GIS/remote sensing students with maps/work representing hardwood management. The contest will provide a forum for students to discuss their research in a supportive environment, gain presentation experience, and access a great networking opportunity. Posters will be available for viewing throughout the conference with a formal session on August 1st. Prizes will be awarded.

Submission Requirements: Please submit a 200 word abstract to storm.robinson@hardwoodsnb.ca on or before May 15th, 2023. Successful applicants will be contacted by June 1st, 2023.

Registration is required for participation. Registration will open March 1, 2023 <https://www.cif-ifc.org/events/2023nhc/> with special student rates available. NHC also invites students who may be interested in volunteering as conference hosts to reach out for opportunities.

NHC 2023
Northern Hardwood Conference
